Digi-Sign Goes Beyond Hong Kong Trade-Van Signed Up as the First Customer of Chinese Taipei

(4 October 2006, Hong Kong) Digi-Sign Certification Services Limited (“Digi-Sign”), a wholly-owned subsidiary of Tradelink Electronic Commerce Limited (“Tradelink”, SEHK: 0536), has signed a three-year service agreement with Trade-Van Information Services Company (“Trade-Van”) in Chinese Taipei.

According to the agreement, Digi-Sign will provide its digital certificates to Trade-Van customers in a secure and seamless fashion. Trade-Van’s customers can make use of Digi-Sign’s digital certificates to conduct secure electronic transactions over the Internet.

Digi-Sign is the first private certification authority recognized under the Electronic Transactions Ordinance in Hong Kong. Digi-Sign has already issued over 300,000 digital certificates in Hong Kong. Users include banks, stockbrokers, professional bodies and Tradelink’s customers. With its proven technology and track record, Digi-Sign is not only a leading e-security solution provider in the corporate market in the local territory, but is also gaining acceptance from markets outside of Hong Kong.

Trade-Van is a leading electronic commerce service provider in Chinese Taipei. Trade-Van’s services include customs cargo clearance, electronic supply chain, electronic logistics, electronic procurement, to name just a few. Currently, almost all customs clearance in Chinese Taipei goes through Trade-Van’s network and the demand for premium e-security solution is robust. Leveraging Digi-Sign’s reliable digital certification infrastructure and sophisticated data encryption technology, Trade-Van’s registered customers can now conduct secure electronic transaction with their trading partners.

Justin Yue, Chief Executive Officer of Tradelink, said, “Trade-Van is one of our close allies in the Pan Asian E-Commerce Alliance for promoting paperless commerce in Asia. Our latest collaboration brings our relationship further. It also underscores both companies’ shared vision of promoting cross-border e-business, supported with a high degree of security. We will continue to promote Digi-Sign’s trustworthy certification services to overseas trading communities.”
